MacSwiney's Body Rests on Spot He Crossed Many Times in Official Capacity

CORK, Oct. 30.—Violence broke out here this afternoon when the "black and tans" wrecked and looted a number of wholesale liquor establishments. It was the first disorder following the arrival here of the body of Terence MacSwiney, Cork's dead lord mayor.

By DANIEL O'CONNELL,
L. N. S. Staff Correspondent.
CORK, Oct. 30.—The first act of interference with the solemnity at the hall of the body of Lord Mayor Mac-Swiney came this afternoon when a squad of British government soldiers tore off the mourning drapery that had been hung over the city door. The crowd of mourners outside showed symptoms of increased indignation at this act, but up to the time of cabling, no disorders had occurred.

By The Associated Press.

CORK, Oct. 30.—British intelligence officers today declared they were in receipt of information to the effect that every officer or man of the crown forces appearing in the streets of Cork tomorrow was likely to be shot.

The authorities this afternoon were seeking to appraise the effect of the viewing of the corpse of Mac-Swiney which would have upon the thousands who passed by the bier of the late lord mayor today and are bearing in mind the statements of officials say are made by Sinn Fein representatives during the prisoner's long fast that should death ensue there would be reprisals of some kind.

CORK, Oct. 30.—Long before the first rays of the rising sun added to the color of the flag of the "Republic of Ireland," fluttering at half mast atop the city hall of this ancient Celtic town, a huge throng of mourners had gathered outside. Within, guarded by an honor squad of Irish volunteers, lies the body of Terence MacSwiney, who as lord mayor of Cork City walked scores of times each day across the very spot where his flower decorated coffin rests. The body will be interred there until the solenn funeral service tomorrow morning.
Only a few paces from where the casket stands, MacSwiney was arrested on August 12, the day he began the hunger strike that ended his life last Monday in Brixton prison, London.

Irish Indignation Mounts.

Annoyed mutterings ran through the ranks of the crowd outside the city hall, a restrained expression of the spirit of intense indignation that is sweeping across the length and breadth of Ireland today as a result of the British government's eleventh hour move yesterday in diverting MacSwiney's body from Dublin, its original destination where a huge demonstration was planned, direct to Cork.

From Holyhead and Dublin came reports early today of an ugly mood shown by the thousands of both towns who had counted on being allowed to pay a last tribute to the dead lord mayor, whose name is already a household word throughout Erin as that of a twentieth century martyr.

Every possible precaution was being taken by the British government early today not only here in Cork, where demonstrations are looked for with certainty, but in every city, town and hamlet in Ireland.

The glass covered casket, revealing the emaciated features of the late lord mayor and his body dressed in the uniform of an officer of the Irish republican army, which had been substituted for the Frenchman's tunic, reposed on a flower-banked catafalque, four young men in civilian dress, maintaining guard.
The platform of the choir loft, in front of which the body lay, was framed of greenery and flowers, forming a central floral representation of the Crucifix, which outlined against a huge background of black velvet, dominated the whole display.

Spirit of Susan B. Anthony Advises Women on Their Vote

Dead Suffrage Pioneer in Seance at Washington Sees League as Secondary Issue; Eugene V.
Debs "One of Greatest", Spirit Says

By MILDRED MORRIS
WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The spirit of Susan B. Anthony communicated with her through a medium of prominent women here and sent a pre-election message to the women voters. It was declared here today by several who were present:

"But if you were here, Miss Anthony, how would you vote?" was the next question.

"There is only one possibility" answered the spirit of the pioneer suffragist, according to Mrs. Russel, wife of Charles Edward Russell, well known social reformer and writer.

The spirit message from the pioneer suffragist read:

"To the women: God speed the day when the eternal spirit of love shall prevail and the clouds of dissension and strife shall vanish."

Asked to advise the women how they should vote in order to select a president who would serve the cause of women, she said: "They must use their own judgment in matters under their control."

the next question.

Another message received from the great woman leader indicated that she considered some other things of equal importance than the issue of nations, according to Mrs. Russell.

Asked whether the majority of women would vote for the issue Tuesday, she answered: "Whether there is or not a league of nations seems of far less vital importance to us than the spirit of unity and good will in the heart of one man to another."

In another message she said the women should formulate a definite program to end war and should begin with "attack on the conscience of the new congress."

The names of the women who took part in the seance were not disclosed for publication.

G.O.P. GAINS IN SOUTH

Republican Leaders Claim Increase; Democrats Confident "Unusual Majorities" Will Be There.

ATLANTA, Oct. 30.—The 1920 presidential campaign virtually came to a close throughout the south tonight with the "usual majorities" for the democratic candidates generally predicted by party leaders. In some states, notably Alabama, local issues appeared to have eclipsed in campaign interest, presidential and congressional returns.

Republican leaders in several states claimed that the returns of voters in particular congressional districts which attracted attention to these contests. Among these is the Third district in Louisiana, composed of the so-called "sugar parishes". The second district in Virginia also was said in reports from that state to afford a "fighting chance" for the republican nominee.

In Mississippi there has been no campaign. In Florida, where republicans were particularly active this year, it was asserted the result was more likely to be apparent in the congressional ticket than in any other way.

In North Carolina where a vigorous fight has been waged during the campaign, there was no official pre-election prediction.

In Tennessee Governor Roberts campaign for re-election involved echoes of the battle over ratification of the woman suffrage amendment and management for A. C. Taylor, his republican opponent, predicted tonight election of their candidate.

George White Also Confident.

This from George White, chairman of the democratic national committee:

"Cox and Roosevelt will win. They will have a party majority in the Senate and a moderate majority in the House."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—E. L.
Rice, a patent attorney of Washington, today filed a damage suit against Secretary of War Baker and a number of officials of the war department, seeking damages of more than $102,000,000.

Rice, who drew up his own bill of complaint, said that on August 9, 1916, he submitted plans and specifications of an airplane to the war department and that a contract was awarded him for $1,000,000, but that this contract was "planned out" and that for this reason he is entitled to damages.
